Why Team Builds?

Imagine how you might transform the group dynamics of your organization or business with a day helping a family with low income become first time homeowners: covered in dirt and drywall dust, tools in hand, your team can expect an experience that will enable them to get to know each other in ways that conference room training sessions simply can't offer. Habitat Team Build participants are not only touched on a personal level by volunteering but also find that working with colleagues on the Habitat work site can make a difference in the way teams work together back at the office on a daily basis. As you take part in creating stability for a family, your team's stability will mirror that same transformation.
